

Should I keep my IT infrastructure on-premise or move to the cloud?

Quiss Technology is a unique managed IT support services provider. Unique because we will provide the solution best suited to an organisation not a solution best suited to what we want to sell.

Quiss Technology has been providing IT services since 1988 and the key to our success is understanding what an organisation requires and advising them how to achieve that goal.

Quiss benefits from having its very own data centre based in Tamworth and we can boast that we were the first IT organisation in the country to achieve ISO27001: 2013, giving our customers peace of mind that their data is secure.

Our clients also benefit from the support of our 60 strong support team of helpdesk engineers, field service engineers and network specialists all over the country to support their IT infrastructure.

Our USP

Our USP is that it doesn't matter whether your requirements for your IT are for an on-premise solution or a cloud solution, Quiss can help.

What is best for your business?

So how do you know what is best for you and your organisation? Would you benefit from having a Cloud Platform or is your infrastructure better placed remaining on-premise? Quiss can help. As a Blended Learning Consortium member, you are entitled to a free consultation from Quiss Technology to answer that very question.

Your free consultation from Quiss

From the consultation, we will help you understand the following of both platforms, on-premise and cloud:

1. What return on investment can I expect from both IT platforms?
2. What is my IT platform costing me at the moment and is there a better way?
3. How efficient is my platform (am I getting the most out of my work force who use it)?
4. Which platform lends itself better to the applications that run my business?
5. What platform suits my business better?
